Fashioned To Reign: Empowering Women To Fulfill Their Divine Destiny

Synopsis

It's Time for a Revolution In the Garden, woman was taken out of man to stand by his side and co-reign with him. But Satan's schemes have robbed women and men of their rightful identities, marring and disempowering them. The world aches for God's original partnership to be brought into balance once more--and it can be. Join Kris Vallotton for an extraordinary journey of eye-opening insight, including

- God's true plan and purpose for women
- Jesus' radical teachings and care for women
- Men's important role in restoring women
- The true interpretation of difficult Bible passages about women
- Examples of women in leadership as God intended

God fashioned women to reign alongside men. Jesus set us free to be our true selves. It's time for all of us, as daughters and sons of the King, to rule together. Will you join the revolution? This biblical approach rightly addresses unright arguments of strained interpretations. Such balance and beauty make sense and offer wisdom. I say, 'Amen!'"--Pastor Jack Hayford, chancellor, The King's University, Dallas/Los Angeles

"Fashioned to Reign is off the charts and worthy to be read and studied by all. Once you start it, you won't be able to put the book down."--Patricia King, founder, XP Ministries

"This profound work is a must-read for men and women alike; it has the potential to instill courage in the hearts of men as well as give women permission to dream again."--Bill Johnson, senior leader, Bethel Church, Redding, California

"This extraordinary book gives women freedom and biblical confidence to co-labor with men and God."--Stacey Campbell, co-founding pastor, New Life Church, Kelowna, British Columbia

Kris Vallotton is the senior associate leader at Bethel Church in Redding, California, where he has served with Bill Johnson for more than three decades. He is the bestselling author or co-author of ten books, including "Spirit Wars," "Outrageous Courage," "The Supernatural Ways of Royalty" and "How Heaven Invades Earth." His prophetic insight and humorous delivery make him a much-sought-after international conference speaker, and his personal testimony of deliverance from fear and torment brings hope and freedom to thousands. Kris is also the co-founder and senior overseer of Bethel School of Supernatural Ministry and the founder of Moral Revolution. He has been interviewed on numerous media outlets, including "The 700 Club" and "In the Market with Janet Parshall." Kris and his wife, Kathy, who live in Redding, have been happily married since 1975. They have four children (three of whom are in full-time vocational ministry) and eight grandchildren. Really love most of this revelation of liberation Kris Vallotton has shared. He lays out a great framework for a Spirit-inspired and location-specific understanding of the issue of women in the body of Christ. A hearty "Amen" to his willingness to leave behind the curse and press on to purpose! I found a few things to be funky; I don't consider Wikipedia to be "real" sourcing - certainly wouldn't allow it is a high school paper, so he loses some scholarly credibility. I'm also trying to wrap my mind around his idea of an androgynous Adam and "wombman", and I'd hate that to become a focal point obscuring the greater message. I hope he doesn't lose too many with some of his more personal, esoteric takes on several issues. That said, I love the call to be willing to look at things from God's point of view as opposed to generations of religious tradition and pre-Jesus context. "It was for freedom we were made free" - what will you do with your freedom. Well worth the read and invitation to a greater, fuller life!

As I read this easy read, I kept thinking, "I knew it! I knew Jesus is for women, he's about me and I'm a woman!" I've often been frustrated with the church. I can manage a company and am entrusted with a several thousand dollar budget, but often in the church I've felt second class. It just has never made sense, especially when I would be blessed in management and promoted for being me. It's not something a woman solely can really argue for herself. It takes men. (Think of slavery, slaves wanted freedom, but it took whites to bring change). Thank you Kris for writing this! For being an encourager of all people men but especially women. This book gave new cultural lenses to look through scripture based on what was happening when the letters (or NT) were written. Each chapter took about 15-20 minutes to finish. I'd recommend this to both men and women.

A most liberating book. I'm not the emotional sort, but it actually brought tears of joy at times. Its not rah-rah encouragements that evaporate in moments. Its not an attempt to mold the Bible into supporting either modern or older worldviews. Whether you are male or female, it challenges you to really think about why you believe what you do about a woman's role. It gives well supported reasons for reconsidering your viewpoint. This gives room for change - for empowerment and freedom that lasts.

Please read this book in its entirety, even if you don't like some things you may read in the first few pages. You will be blessed, if you can keep an open and humble heart and mind as you read. I always had trouble with some passages in the Bible that seemed to put women down, particularly in some of Paul's letters. My spirit just couldn't agree with what the words seemed to be saying. I mentally put it aside, figuring that my understanding is still incomplete and, as such a man of God as Paul was, I ought not summarily reject Paul's words. At the same time, I accepted theology that women must always have a male head, in church and outside, in order to be in accordance with the Lord's will. Even though I have lived my life probably 80% in line with what Kris teaches, I didn't realize how much that little piece of misguided theology had oppressed me. How is it possible that I had embraced and expected all equality but spiritual equality? I love how Kris values the different strengths that men and women have while ascribing them equal places in the spiritual realm. Praise be to the Lord for what He reveals through Kris and thanks to Kris for his obedience to be used by the Lord!

I really enjoyed this book and listening to Kris speak on this topic via podcast from Bethel, however as a single woman who is a CEO I found that the book did not place as much value on single women as married ones. The book concludes with Kris listing 5 inspirational women in his life all of whom are married with multiple children and considering the number of single women in the church I was disappointed there was not more relating to this. In addition Kris exhorts motherhood as in need of recognition and value and while I agree that it is extremely important I would argue that it is currently the only thing that the church values in a woman and that it is held up as the most important thing any woman could do with her life. Women without children, especially single ones, are made to feel as though they have somehow failed in life. Single women and men are also both often excluded from church leadership across the world and I feel that this is another area in which The Lord seeks to restore things. Thank you Kris though for championing the cause of women and for writing this book, you make a powerful, scriptural argument for women to co-reign that I think must really please The Lord.
