I just finished the 31 day program and I've lost 10 lbs!!! My husband decided to try it after my great results. He has lost 12 lbs and he's only on week 2. Both of my parents are type 2 diabetic and are going to get approval from their doctors to start ASAP! The first three days are tough, but it gets easier. I plan on sticking with this lifestyle change to feel this healthy for as long as possible!!

I found this book to be really beneficial. Though I have no weight issues and never have, I love cakes and desserts and eat them daily. I sort of rely on them for the afternoon pick me up. This started after I gave birth to my second kid. And I've sort of become a slave to the sugar craving. In addition to that I was recently diagnosed with a Thyroid Nodule. Although I don't have a thyroid condition, it's a swell/cyst or inflammation on my thyroid. For the first time in my life I became interested in improving my health. But I never believed I had a problem; I eat well, no soda, no sugar in coffee, no alcohol, no candy... And I work out 2-3x a week with an active life style. But my skin looks dull to me and I'm obsessed with pastries and doughnuts and cupcakes and chocolate (need I say more?). Did I really have a problem? I read the book and after each chapter was really impressed with all the knowledge I was gaining on food and ingredients and their effects on the body. I'd wake up each morning ready to start the 3 day detox.... But couldn't make it past breakfast. Finally halfway through the book and after a previous day of classic sugar overdose at a birthday party I started the day 1 detox. Worst day of my life. By day 2 I was certain this was the stupidest decision of my life. But I followed the detox plan exactly. By day 3 I was craving anything yummy or sweet like crazy, I felt starved and deprived... But I made it through. I couldn't go back, I had come so far. I had to prove to myself I could do 3 days, just 3 days! And by the morning of day 4 (and after pooping a five gallon bucket worth of pooh) I had lost 4 lbs and felt amazing. I was a believer, not from the weight loss, but from the sheer amount of stuff coming out the back end (if you know what I mean) despite putting so little in. I never had a low energy point in the afternoons despite just eating veggies, protein and nuts. So I continues with week 1 (and was overly excited about the diet additions like apple and dairy). I'm now at the end of week 1 and still have the occasional sugar craving, but despite sugar being everywhere I refuse to put it in my body - that's an iron will that has now stood the test over a dozen times through out this week. I'm about to start week 2 and am impressed that I've come this far. I couldn't have ever done a diet without the incredible information in this book. It has transformed how I look at food, health and my body. I'm glad to have kicked the habit and now have control and choice in the matter.

My boot camp class started this diet when we started out classes. With me being diabetic it has really shown me what I can eat without starving myself. Great references and recipes.

Thank you for writing step by step clear instructions for breaking away from sugar. WOW!

This diet helped me get off the sugar that is hidden in most foods. A good reminder for me to eat healthy and natural foods. Also I don't crave sweets and unsweetened foods appeal to me again.

This is the best book on how to get rid of sugar cravings, very informative, very easy and delicious recipes. You learn about food and what happens in your body when you eat it.. I did not have to loose weight, used it to stop my cravings for sugar cravings and how to eat healthy. I really recommend this book... LOVE IT !!!! Ann H

Excellent book.
