No Ticket ... Nevermind: My True Story Of The Infamous 1992 Canberra Nirvana Concert

Synopsis

NO TICKET... NEVERMIND Early 1992. Nirvana's "Smells Like Teen Spirit" hit number one on the U.S. hit parade - yet Nirvana decide to honour their commitment to tour Australia, leaving America to wait. Every venue sells out. Experiencing double-digit unemployment and the end of a long, hot summer, the youth of Canberra made all hell break loose that night at the city's ANU Bar. No Ticket... Nevermind is the story of a 16-year-old tomboy who found her own teen spirit on that sweaty flannelette-shirt-wearing night. She went out with one intention: to share an incredible experience with her new best friend. She found so much more. This is the true story of the most infamous concert in Canberra's history played by a band on the brink of immortality. 'We played in Canberra at a school, and it was ... nuts!' Krist Novoselic, Nirvana Bass player. This is a short memoir piece of 5298 words.

Customer Reviews

First, disclosure Joanne is a friend of mine, but I bought her book unasked because its subject matter greatly interested me. Second, an aside that also compelled me to buy this book. I've known Jo since the late 2000s, but up until the year before the events of Jo's story we were unknowingly fellow Canberrans. From 1989 to 1991, I was a student at the University of Canberra over in Belconnen. Finally, my review. I enjoyed Jo's memoir very much. Jo vividly tells a very funny story that would make a great short film. I smiled and laughed picturing a 16-year-old Jo in action, determined to see one of the legendary bands of the 1990s. I highly recommend No Ticket to anyone who fondly remembers Nirvana, or being 16, or being there that night in 1992, or all of the above.
