Customer Reviews

2011: by The American Red Cross - 181 pages.

This manual is written to accompany any of the American Red Cross laypersons' courses in first aid and resuscitation, either with or without AED, and for either or both adults and pediatric victims. It has much more material than is included in any of the courses, and can serve as a reference. Some of it could have been a bit better organized and worded more concisely (particularly the first chapter), but nevertheless I enjoyed it. As an aside, it is available in Adobe Acrobat format as a free download on the American Red Cross website.

I was taking a CPR class, and this was a must have for it. There is some common sense knowledge through out. Yet, most of the information inside the book can really help save lives. Definitely cheap enough that to justify the fact that it is just for CPR with light first aid info.

Good refresher course. If someone in your family has heart problems or is older, this is a good book to study and have on hand. Also, if you can, take a CPR/AED course at your local Red Cross, school or church that offers these classes.

My wife took a CPR class a while back and they recommended this book. I got it for her to keep here at home to reference as needed.

Book was in excellent condition no pages ripped/falling out. Everything was very neat. Did not come with any CD (but also did not state a CD)

Book arrived safe and sound with no shipping damage. I needed a refresher and this is the latest that the red cross uses in their classes. I added it to my bug out bag. It would be a great addition to have at home or your vehicle in case you encounter minor medical issues. If it is complicated call 911 and let the pro's handle the situation.

This is the required text for the Red Cross basic first aid and CPR class. It is clearly written and should be in everyone's library.

Just to clarify this is the correct and current Red Cross manual. The book is exactly has described in the description. The price is great because it's way cheaper than what you can buy online through Red Cross. I am a bit sad that they only allow you to buy 4.
