PreSchool-This lift-the-flap book features seven familiar barnyard animals covering their faces with two of their appendages (hoofs, wings, etc.). The text on each page is identical, "Guess who? Peek-a-...." Turning down the flaps reveals the face of the animal and the sound it makes. The final spread features a baby. Children will most likely identify all of the animals even before lowering the flaps. This aside, they'll love making the sounds that the book is bound to induce. The creatures are presented in large scale and in vibrant colors set against a single color background. A boon for infant and toddler programs. Tom S. This is a precious book for curious babies and toddlers. It is a lift-flap book but since the flaps are so large, we have had some trouble keeping the pages from tearing during the ever-exciting "peek-a-..." moments which is why I am giving it 4 of 5 stars. I frequently have to glue pieces back to the book but it is worth the trouble for now since this book makes our toddler so excited about reading. We actually have to hide this book to prevent reading it 20x a night and to get some of her other stories into the reading rotation. It is on the larger size so it also makes a great classroom book for teachers. This book is all about lifting the flap to discover what each animal says. There is a cow, duck, mouse, pig, rooster, a couple other animals, and at the end, a baby. It isn't a long book which makes it easy to memorize. Peek-a-moo, peek-a-cock-a-doodle-doo, peek-a-oink, etc. are on every page and the toddlers LOVE to scream out the animal sounds. Even with the easily torn flaps, I recommend this book for all kids since it makes reading so much fun!

baby loves peekaboobaby are not gentle with books.this is a book for peekaboo.baby loves this book.baby are not gentle with books.book teared apart.baby is sad.so why on earth this book is NOT offered in board book format?

Really funny and cute book! Unfortunately it's really easy to rip if your kid likes to rip things off the page. My baby already ripped one of the pages T__T Overall, it's really fun book!

Bought this because my 16 mo old daughter loves lift the flap books, but these flaps are quite flimsy and thin. Not built to withstand toddler hands and/or frequent usage.

Holy cow, my child loves this book. He is now 14 months, and at 9/10 months I started reading to him. Most of the time he is gentle with the flaps, but if he looks like he's going to tear it off, I just make sure to keep a distance from him until he learns to be more gentle. But he cracks up at each page when the animals are revealed. He knows this book with the pink spine on his bookshelf and specifically pulls it off and brings it over for me to read to him. He starts getting excited before I even open the cover.

My 11 month old son loves this book. I thought I should point out some things that were unexpected about it when ordering sight unseen. This is NOT a board book, and it oversized. My son is at that point where he wants to do everything for himself, but I cannot let him have this book alone. The pages are at least thick, like poster board, but that isn't enough to prevent damage. He also has a harder time turning the pages and lifting the flaps because of the large size. I would have liked to know this, so I thought I'd share. Content wise, though, it is great. We are learning names for the parts of the face, and it is great for that, if only he would let me hold the book for him.

My 8 month old son goes to daycare, where they read this book to his class. The teachers read it to kids ranging in age from 12 weeks old to 3 years old, and ALL of the kids are silent and are so attentive when it's read to them. They'll all smiles and love the "peek a boo" from each of the animals! It's really amazing to watch! My son loved it so much, I bought one for our house, and he absolutely giggles with each of the animals! I've already purchased a few other copies for gifts, and plan to purchase the "peek a zoo" book for our house and gifts as well!

My son LOVES lift the flap books from around 9 months old, so I ordered a few of the most highly reviewed ones. This is by far his favorite - anytime he sees it, he drags it out and wants me to read it to him (actually read it and hold it so he can lift and lower the flaps). If its on the bottom of a stack of books, he throws all the other ones on the floor and then waves this one around in excitement. He also likes that when you open it with the cover facing out you can see the whole cow. As other reviewers have pointed out, its not a board book so you can't leave baby alone with it if you want it to stay in one piece but still pretty durable. Highly recommend.(His other lift the flap favs are Where is Spot, the Karen Katz books, Where is Maisy, and Who's at Home (cutest book ever).)
