Survival Mom replaces paranoia and panic with the peace of knowing YOU have the power to keep your loved ones safe and secure.

Great find!!!! This is a wonderful book starting with the basics that any one beginning prepping will greatly appreciate. It has informative lists that help you get started gathering supplies for not only food but on how to keep important papers as well as which ones you'll need in an emergency. How to prepare your car/truck to survive a disaster or to go move to a safer place. Each chapter builds upon the last one and supplies a list of things necessary to do in order to continue on. It breaks down tasks into simple things from just adding one or two extra cans of food to your routine shopping list to larger storage of much used and needed supplies. This book even has a chapter on finances that you will need to have in order to "get through". Gives you the top items for bartering as well as covers self protection for you and your family. This is a must read for any "Mom" in the house even if you aren't prepping. I wish I'd gotten this book sooner as it would have saved me so much time and energy. These baby steps lists are a must in getting you and your family well prepared.!!

This book is amazing. I wish I would have had this book when I first began preparing. This book would have saved me a lot of confusion and money. There is really no other book as complete as this one. This isn't a short book but, it is organized and practical. She covers: different disaster scenarios, water requirements, food and food storage, sanitation, getting your home base ready, getting prepared for power outages, safety and security, finances for survival, building a survival community, evacuation basics. Each chapter ends with a plan to help you complete the steps necessary for preparedness. There really aren't any other books as comprehensive as this one that includes a practical plan to help you get prepared. This book is highly recommended.

This book I have bought for several family members and friends. Its not a pg.1 to pg.242. type book. Its go to the exact area of your concern. It's not a doomsdayer paranoid book, it's an easy to read, practical book that covers everything you can think of and more. Great tips, where to go websites, and useful free or inexpensive ways to protect your family in any scenario. Let's face it, a solar oven for about $5.00 (five dollars). This should be every families tutorial. In todays world, the "duck and cover" method just doesn't fly. Hurricane Katrina, Sandy, etc. victims could have gotten a lot of use from pages out of this book.

Lisa is spot on when it comes to preparation for a disaster. Her insight is clear and precise. I take what she says heart. I am glad we have people like her out there leading the way. Just plan common sense person giving help to people that need it.

This book is so full of meat and potatoes it is an absolute must have for any library. It is full of great tips and tools brought to you in an easy to understand and digest format. Kudos to you Lisa for your great production and taking the time to produce such a comprehensive manual. It is an ideal book for use in an urban/suburban setting and really Lisa leaves no detail unattended to. If you are looking for a great book to take control of your family and have the confidence to survive if your family is threatened, this is the manual you need!

Some really great advice here for the mom whose family is maybe not quite on board with the whole "prepper" thing. My husband and boys joke when they see me reading it that I've been watching too much Walking Dead, and that's fine. I'm still learning how to prepare and stockpile step by step. She writes very concisely and has a ton of great resources, including her website which is fantastic. Her website has a lot of this information on it, but it's pretty important to have this hard copy "just in case" we have no access to the internet/power/etc. in the future.

Author Lisa Bedford is such a good, practical and fun writer I can only hope she produces more like this. A lot more.

I loved this book. I can easily see myself referring back to it as my family begins our own journey in preparing for disasters (natural and/or man-made). I have purchased perhaps a dozen prepping and self-sustaining books and this is by far the best. I enjoy the fact that it is broken down into sensible and realistically useful chapters i.e. water, sanitation, food storage and safety. I enjoy that this book makes sense to me. I try to approach books such as these knowing that I am a novice and some of the suggestions will not be for me and my family and some of the ideas will not make sense to me. However with this book - it almost feels like the author is an old friend and knows what my next question is going to be. I loved the fact that she does in fact talk about how to make your own commode and how to get younger children involved in the preparations. The advice was clear and concise to me. In fact, I was watching a show on cable and they were talking about a 'survival during catastrophe' situation and I said to myself: the five main destroyers of food stocks are: humidity, oxygen, heat, light and pests. This came straight from the book! I did not even realize that I was learning from the book enough to subconsciously recite details like this while I was absentmindedly watching television. There are recipes in here that I am actually eager to try out. I think the best part of this book was the end of the chapter checklists and planning steps.
