Sheetzu Caca Poopoo: My Kind Of Dog

Synopsis

Comedian and talk-show host Joy Behar has teamed up with illustrator Gene Barretta to create a feisty, lovable character in this cheerful, funny picture book. When Max the mixed-breed meets a pack of snobby purebred dogs in the dog run, he can't understand why they don't want to play with him and his mongrel friends. Determined to get everyone to play together, brainy Max—who is part poodle, after all—comes up with a way to break the ice between the mixed-breeds and the purebreds. America's current obsession with designer dogs makes this book as timely as it is lively.

This will be a Christmas present for my granddaughter. I like Joy Behar's humor and just the name of the book alone was reason to buy it.

We love this book and we have a dog like this

I bought this to read to the grandchildren. It would make a great gift as well. I'd guess it is a second grade reading level if bought for a child to read on its own. Creative and colorful pictures to keep the little ones interested if read to.

This book is adorable. I thought it would be another "celebrity written" book. Just a few quick words and done. But I was wrong. This had a very cute story and a nice moral. The kids loved it!

I truly enjoyed reading this book! There are so many subtle lessons in there for adults as well as children that I may not give it to my nieces as originally planned.

Joy Behar is a--well, joy!--and her books are terrific. My granddaughter and my nieces and nephews love this book! Buy it!!

Fun book with a morale. Love the title. Great read to children under the age of 10.
